News To Veterans

Burial benefits for veterans were brought under the single management of the Veterans Administration by the National Cemetery Act signed June 18 by the President.

The Roanoke VA Regional Office reported that in addition to transferring to VA many areas of Army responsibility, the law directs an Arlington National Cemetery study be conducted during the next year. The Administrator of Veterans Affairs, and Secretary of Defense must report to the Congress by January 3, 1974, as to:

(1) Whether Arlington National Cemetery should be included in the National Cemetery System to be operated by VA; (2) The appropriateness of present eligibility requirements for burial at Arlington National Cemetery, and; (3) The advisability of establishing another national cemetery in or near the District of Columbia.

VA said in addition to this joint report, the Administrator of Veterans Affairs is directed by the Act to make a comprehensive study of these questions: (1) Long range concepts for the development of the National Cemetery system, including the concept of regional cemeteries; (2) Relationship of burial benefits provided by state governments and other federal agencies to those provided by The National Cemetery System; (3) Private burial and funeral costs in the United States; (4) Current burial and marker programs; (5) Sales practices among marketers of nonfederal cemeteries and interment facilities.

Transfer of cemetery and grave marker functions from the Department of Defense-VA said, is effective September 1, but exempted from transfer are Arlington National Cemetery, cemeteries at 27 military posts and those at the US.Soldier's and Airmen's Home in Washington, D.C., the Naval Home in Philadelphia, and those at the military academies.

Certain historic cemeteries under the Department of Interior and the American Battle Monuments Commission are also excluded from the Transfer.

VA said the new law directs the Administrator of Veterans Affairs, in cooperation with the Secretary of Defense, to return the body of an unknown American who served in the Vietam era, for burial in the National Cemetery at Arlington, and it authorizes flying of the U.S. flag over national cemeteries 24 hours each day.

Burial benefits, VA explained, in addition to the burial allowance, under the new law, are a plot or interment allowance of $150 for an eligible veteran who is not buried in a national cemetery or other cemetery under federal jurisdiction, and a burial benefit of up to $800 in lieu of any other burial benefit, for veterans who die of service connected disabilities.

Eligibility for burial in national cemeteries remains unchanged. Veterans as well as servicemen who die during active military, naval or air service are eligible, and members of the reserves of the army and air national guard are eligible when death occurred while on active duty for training, inactive duty training, or while hospitalized or being treated at the expense of the United States.

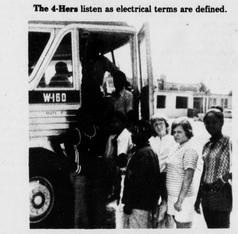
Miss Linda Stockton, Assistant Home Service Advisor at Southside Electric Cooperative, demonstrates the proper selection of a good study lamp (BLBS)

The 4-Hers listen as electrical terms are defined.



A group of 4-Hers as they aboard the bus for an all day electrical tour, as they see how electricity works for man.

Southside Electric Cooperative - "4-H Electric Program"

Southside Electric Cooperative held its first three day 4-H Electrical Program at the Annex from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M. with nine counties participating in the Southside Area. The program was an intense study of electricity for two days and the third day an electrical tour. An average of 82 4-H'ers participated, with only those interested in the electric project. The 4-H'ers and their leaders were from Nottoway, Amelia, Prince Edward, Appomattox, Cumberland, Powhatan, Buckingham, Brunswick and Dinwiddie.

Mr. C. S. Hooper, Jr., Manager of Southside Electric Cooperative, welcomed the 4-H'ers to Southside. He said, "I hope you will learn and better understand electricity and its many uses which plays a vital role in our lives today."

"What is Electricity", the 4-H'ers learned it is the "flow of electrons". They also learned from Miss Linda Stockton, Assistant Home Service Advisor at Southside Electric Cooperative, the definition of many electrical terms which are very important in understanding electricity.

"How current comes into your home", was outlined by Mr. M. G. Harrison, Agricultural Engineer at Southside Electric Cooperative. Through this, the 4-H'ers better understood how the current is stepped up from the generator voltage of 35,500 volts to voltage ranging from 69,000 volts to 750,000 volts by transformers for long-distance transmission to 7200 volts for distribution and then reduced by transformers. Voltage is reduced again by a transformer to provide the 240 - 120 volts coming into the home.

The 4-H'ers also got a glance at Southside's IBM System, how the machine reads and tabulates their parent's electric bill. The seventeen county service area was also viewed on the large service area map to see how the service men locate each member's service connection. They also learned how to repair a small lamp or appliance cord and plug.

The second day began with a review of the first. The 4-Her's then had a study of many different types of bulbs on the market, why they are important and how each is used. From Thomas A. Edison's first successful light bulb in 1879, light bulbs have made many drastic changes in size, shape and purpose. These bulbs were demonstrated by Mrs. Betty Douglass, Home Service Advisor at Southside Electric Cooperative. Basic lighting throughout the home was emphasized by a slide presentation.

"Don't study just any place with any kind of light," said Miss Stockton. She demonstrated the proper measurements of a good study lamp. When buying a lamp, look for one which has the "Better Light, Better Sight" (BLBS) tag. It must have features which provide enough light as well as reduce glare and shadows.

The 4-H'ers then had a fun cookout at the SEC Pavilion. Following the cookout, the 4-Hers learned of electrical safety as they watched the film "My Pop's A Lineman". A 4-Her from Appomattox County, Danny Harvey, gave an excellent electric demonstration. Mr. Wayne Keffer, 4-H Leader of East Central District, told the 4-Hers the different levels of activity in the electric project. By a tape recording, Margaret & Earl Mottley told how they became interested in the electric project. Earl told of his many achievements in the 4-H Electric Project, his goal was to reach the top as a national winner. In 1972 he did reach the top as one of the six National Scholarship winners of $700.

The third day on tour, to see how electricity works for man, the 4-H'ers, by buses, toured Holly Farms feed mill, Powhatan Locker Plant, Ellmington Farm, owned by Henry Baskerville and R. J. Willis' Dairy Farm. At the end of the day, the 4-H'ers had seen IBM Computer System taking the place of 30 men; cutting ageing and cold storage of meat; large chicken, swine, and cattle houses served by electricity; and dairy cows being milked by electric milkers.

They saw at each stop how electricity is the big helper in all of these various operations. It was educational from Mrs. farm life aspect as well as the electrical aspect.

The three days were filled with electrical education and fun. One can really learn if he or she is interested in a subject, and Southside Electric Cooperative has the subject.

The three day electrical program was a great success in the Southside area.

Am I Covered

Q. - If my car is parked somewhere other than my residence and unlocked, does my homeowners insurance cover articles stoken out of my car?

A - Not unless your car is locked and there is evidence of forcible entry. You may, however, purchase insurance to your homeowners policy to provide coverage for articles left in your car while it is unlocked or unattended. In both cases, the policy deductible would apply to your theft loss.

Q - My daughter, a college student, had some of her personal belongings stolen from her while at school. Does my homeowners policy cover these articles?

A - Yes, subject to the policy deductible and not to exceed 10% of the amount of insurance shown as your policy limit under the unscheduled personal property portion of your homeowners policy.

Q - If I employ the services of a neighborhood child to cut my grass, and while in the process he sustains injury from a flying object thrown from under the lawnmower, does my homeowners policy provide any coverage for injury or injuries sustained?

A - The liability portion of your homeowners policy will pay on your behalf all sums which you may become legally obligated to pay because of bodily injury or property damage and to pay all reasonable medical expenses within one year from the date of the accident up to the limits of liability shown on your homeowners policy.
